GRANDIN Temple	Thinking in Pictures and Other Reports from my Life with Autism Dr. Temple Grandin is a gifted animal scientist who has designed one third of all the livestock-handling facilities in the United States. She also lectures widely on autism because Temple Grandin is autistic a woman who thinks, feels and experiences the world in ways that are incomprehensible to many of us. Here, in Temple Grandin's own words, is the story of what it is like to live with autism and to be among the few people who have broken through many neurological impairments associated with autism. Throughout her life she has developed unique coping strategies including her famous squeeze machine which she modeled after seeing the calming effect of squeeze chutes on cattle. She describes her painful isolation growing up 'different' and her discovery of visual symbols to interpret the 'ways of the natives.' Thinking In Pictures also gives information from the front lines of autism, including treatment, medication, and diagnosis, as well as Temple's insights into genius savants, sensory phenomena, and animal behaviour. Ultimately, it is Temple's unique ability to describe the way her visual mind works and how she first made the connection between her impairment and animal temperament that is the basis of her extraordinary gift and phenomenal success. 1995	1
GRANDIN, Temple & SCARIANO, M	Emergence – Labeled Autistic Well known as a speaker on autism and the author of Thinking in Pictures, in a recent interview Temple Grandin said, 'I used to think there must be a psychological reason for anxiety. I didn't know it was just biology pure biology. It's part of the syndrome. The nervous system is hyper hyper hyper. The sympathetic nervous system is turned up all the time in a lot of autistic people. I'd have anxiety attacks over nothing. The mind being what it is, I'd try to link them to something. Going after my destiny had to do with my thinking I could make the anxiety go away. An abused child has reason for anxiety. It's trauma-induced. I didn't have that. My hearing is oversensitive my touch system is oversensitive and stimuli that are insignificant to most people would trigger an anxiety response in me. Pure biology. ' In Emergence Temple tells the story of how she went from a fear-gripped, autistic childhood to become a successful professional, a world leader in her field. 1996	1

The book has bright colourful pictures and a fun, rhyming story that explains inclusive schooling to children. The book is about Charlie, a little boy with Autism who has just started school for the first time. The children in his class wonder why he sometimes finds it hard to join in, but the teacher soon explains that each of us is different and in order to understand we sometimes need to do things differently. 2004	1

BIRD, Veronica AHEAD WITH AUTISM	The Different Shades of Autism – The Screening and diagnosis of Autistic Spectrum Disorders A resource for parents, paediatricians, teachers and therapists. It provides help and hope as replacements for fear and stigma, and it provides information and intervention as replacements for denial and delay. It blends accurately, and sensitively, the important information ones needs to know about autism, with the understanding and individualised approach necessary to every child who is autistic. It is a realistic, and optimistic, view of the many shades with which autism does present itself, and the many faces and families it does engulf, providing for families and professionals alike, useful guidance, help and hope. 2000	1

ABIQ DVD – 2 DVD Discs, 4 hours approx	Donna Williams Dealing with Anxiety Anxiety is a central feature of Autism Spectrum conditions for many people. Reacting to the triggers of Anxiety is not the same as understanding its general underlying causes and finding the causes specific to each person is like looking for a needle in a hay stack. The toolkit needed to address each person's anxiety state are going to be different for each person, so it's like building a map and then building the tool kit specific to each person. This presentation is all about setting out the nature of the needles in that hay stack, explaining why people on the Autistic Spectrum may be very special camels when it comes to dealing with straws, guiding you in the building of a map of anxiety and showing you which tools best suit which types of jobs.	2
ABIQ DVD - 2 DVD Discs, 5 hours approx (4 April 2005)	Professor Tony Attwood The Teacher Aide Puzzle: Providing Support to Children with Autism and Asperger's Syndrome in Schools This professional development activity will give participants an opportunity to explore some key issues experienced by teacher aides working with students with Autistic Spectrum Disorders in Queensland schools. Specific topics will include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understanding children with ASD • Helping children with ASD manage anxiety • Supporting children with ASD • Facilitating peer support for children with ASD • Empowering children with ASD to help themselves 	2
ABIQ DVD - 2 DVD Discs, 4 hours approx (12 June 2005)	Donna Williams Cat People and Dog People There are very real reasons why the cat's reality is closer to that of many people on the Autism Spectrum, why, metaphorically, they are like 'cat people'. There are equally explainable reasons why non-autistic social and communication reality more greatly resembles that of the dog, metaphorically, they are like 'dog people'. What's more, understanding those differences means we can translate from one reality to the other and build bridges between the two. This lecture is all about doing that.	2
